PROBE MYSTERY IN FLIGHT OF RUDOLF HESS

"Painful Tragedy" Is Berlin's Attitude On "Disappearance" Of Hess

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)
BERLIN, May 13.—A "fixed obsession" that by personal contact with British friends he could bring about an Anglo-German understanding was blamed today for Deputy Nazi Leader Rudolf Hess' astonishing flight to Scotland.

The official German radio gave this explanation for Hess' action in the first definite German admission that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's number 3 actually is a prisoner of war in British hands.

The broadcaster gave the impression that Hess for some time had been obsessed with the idea of swinging a single-handed peace that would benefit Nazi Germany and at the same time end war in the world.

President's Action Cancelling Speech Arouses Conjecture

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The sensational surrender of Rudolf Hess, number 3 Nazi, to the British today completely overshadowed the significance of President Roosevelt's action in cancelling his scheduled address to the Pan-American union, after British aid leaders predicted it would be one of the most momentous in American history.

It is barely possible the president knew of the capture of Hess before he permitted the Pan-American union to withdraw its invitation to hear him speak, and did not wish to share international headlines with developments in the Hess affair. But this deduction clashes with some known facts.

Forecast Two Steps

Many prominent leaders of the aid-Britain program have been declaring for the past two weeks that Mr. Roosevelt would announce one of two tremendous acts—each constituting a full step towards United States entry into the war. These steps were:

1. To declare a full emergency in the United States, thereby taking (Continued On Page Two)

MISS JOSEPHINE SCOTT

Authorities are seeking to find a motive for the apparent murder-suicide deaths of William Haltenberger, 30, a petroleum engineer, and Miss Josephine Scott, 25, assistant club editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and daughter of the chief physician of City hospital. The bodies of the couple, who had been close friends for seven years, were found in a parked automobile in a Cleveland suburb, a revolver between them. Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said that apparently Haltenberger shot the girl then himself.

LONDON, May 13.—Whisked to a secret hide-out from the Glasgow military hospital, deputy Nazi party leader Rudolf Hess today faced a grilling by two of Nazism's arch-foes, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

His whereabouts kept a close military secret, Hess was removed from the hospital after being examined by a group of physicians who pronounced him sane and healthy.

This examination completed, officials took the heavily guarded prisoner, who parachuted from a German warplane to the banks of Scotland's Loch Lomond Saturday night, away from his rendezvous with the prime minister and foreign secretary.

Where this meeting will occur was not divulged. But it was arranged by Ivone A. Kirkpatrick, a high foreign office official who flew to Glasgow and established Hess's true identity beyond all doubt. Kirkpatrick, former charge d'affaires of the British embassy in Berlin, was well acquainted with Hess in pre-war days.

Hess' status it was authoritatively learned is that of a military prisoner because he arrived in Scotland attired in an army uniform. Consequently Hess is being held incommunicado and military rules forbid making public any statements obtained from him.

Scottish Ploughman Tells Of Hess' Capture

As Told To International News Service
GLASGOW, Scotland, May 13.—I found Rudolf Hess in a field on the farm where I work, but I didn't know it was Hess at the time. I took him to my cottage where he gossiped with my mother and relatives for an hour before the police took him away.

I was in the house and everyone else was in bed when I heard a plane overhead. I ran to the back of the farm and heard it crash and saw it burst into flames in a field 200 yards away. I was amazed and a bit frightened.

Then I saw a parachute dropping to earth and a man swinging in the harness. I concluded he was a German aviator bailing out and I raced to the house for help. But they were sleeping. So I searched hastily for a weapon but could find only a hayfork.

Fearing that I might lose the airman I hurried around by myself to the back of the house and saw the man lying on the ground. He (Continued On Page Two)

Hess' Fantastic Flight Cause Of Consternation In Berlin

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service
Foreign Editor

A consternation that no official statements or broadcasts could hide prevailed in Berlin today over the fantastic flight to Scotland of Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's one-time jail-mate and Number 3 man in the Nazi regime.

More important, perhaps, was the consternation in Tokyo and the complete silence in Rome—points two and three in the "triangular Axis" which is committed to defeat of the British Empire.

Regardless of all the rumors and reports certain to flow in the wake of the most astonishing single development of this or any other war, the immediate effects of Hess' amazing venture affords the first real proof to what everyone has long known.

The Nazi regime, its existence, its success and its perpetuity, depend upon the handful of men who built it.

Knew He Was In Britain.

It now is obvious that the Germans knew Hess was in Britain long before they announced mysteriously yesterday that he was "missing" after leaving Augsburg on an unauthorized flight in defiance of Hitler's orders while "mentally deranged."

The details of this "derangement" could not come until the British announced that Hess was in their hands. Whereupon Berlin promptly made known that his desire to go to England was full proof of his madness.

Hess may yet prove to be a madman. He may prove to be an adventurer who had sought too much power in the Reich and fled a threatened "purge." He may even turn out to be one of the most amazing stooges in all history—sent to Scotland purposely to delude and mislead the British in a series of Moscow-like "confessions."

The latter is hardly likely but should not be overlooked.

Hitler Surprised.

At the moment, however, it does appear that Hitler and the whole German nation were taken overwhelmingly by surprise when Hess opened the throttle of a Messerschmitt and streaked over the North sea to drop with a broken ankle in a Scotch farmer's vegetable patch.

Now from German officialdom comes an unending stream of speculation and almost incredible revelation—how the man slated some day to take over Hitler's own mantle as fuhrer has given himself over to astrologers, "magnetists" and even magicians.

It is impossible to conceive of any British statesman or any French statesman staging any such fantastic feat as Hess carried out, regardless of the stakes. In any other country, a man as mad as Hess now is being pictured by Berlin would have been under lock and key years ago.

But Hess, as a keystone of the regime could not be removed by any such routine measure. Even if insane, he had to be kept on as a ceremonial figure, the Germans admit.

And now that he has gone, of his own free will, by demerol guidance or as victim of a "British trap" as some German commentators say, the dependance of Nazi solidarity upon a few key figures is completely obvious.

State Democrats Plan New Action

Expect To Make Move On Taxes

Sponsoring Of Proposal To Cut Taxes Seeks To Put Republicans On "Spot"

MOVE TO PRECEDE STATE CAMPAIGN

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 13.—The Democratic party has tentatively decided to sponsor legislation at this session of the legislature reducing taxes, it was authoritatively learned today.

A statement embodying the party's position is now being drawn up and will be issued jointly today or tomorrow by the Democratic leaders of the house and senate, Rep. Leo A. Achterman and Sen. Harry Shapiro.

Statement later Achterman confirmed that the statement would be issued within the next few days but cautioned that "we haven't definitely made up our minds yet."

From other reliable sources, however, it was learned that the decision to reduce taxes has been made, and barring some sudden and unexpected change in plans will be made public in the statement now under preparation.

The decision to reduce taxes, rumored but never confirmed until now, is expected to prove a bombshell to the administration. In his budget message of last February, Gov. Arthur H. James told the legislature that "successful completion of this program will set the stage for a huge tax reduction program... at the end of this next biennium," and then cautioned:

"By lowering relief appropriations and raising tax estimates it would be possible to create an apparent spread between income and needs which would permit cutting taxes during this session. In my judgment, that would be to count chickens not yet hatched."

The Democratic decision to introduce tax reduction legislation in the house, which they dominate, would therefore place Republican legislators in a position of either opposing tax reduction on the eve of the 1942 gubernatorial campaign or running counter to the governor's program.

sion they emphasized that Hess's sudden departure will have no effect upon Germany's war on foreign policies or upon the basic structure of Nazism.

Hitler Takes Over Duties
Chancellor Hitler assumed personal control of the former office of Hess, who disappeared while plotting a plan in defiance of the reichsfuehrer's orders that he remain on the ground.

Authoritative quarters said that for years Hess's health has been undermined by stomach trouble, following which "nervous trouble" developed.

This, it was stated, gradually assumed more serious proportions and Hess became a victim of insomnia. "It is a clear-cut case of an obsession," one authoritative spokesman remarked. "It is ridiculous to assume that he suffered from a persecution mania based on actual threats, which finally caused him to escape from Germany."

"A definite verdict on the case depends upon what Hess will do in the future."

"Whereabouts Unknown"
It was maintained by authoritative Berlin circles that Hess's whereabouts are unknown. For this reason, German quarters said, English reports he landed near Glasgow cannot be denied from Berlin.

"But it is absurd," said a spokesman, "to believe that defeatism drove Hess to fly to England when Germany is on the verge of the greatest victory in her history."

The office which Hess had controlled was known as the party chancellery. It was announced that Reichsleiter Martin Bormann would remain in charge of the routine business of the office.

Meanwhile, "German newspapers gave front page prominence to the official German announcement that Hess had disappeared after leaving behind a letter that indicated 'mental derangement.'"

(Editor's Note: The British government disclosed that Hess landed in Scotland by parachute Saturday night.

"Suddenly Sane"
(This announcement said Hess had been taken a prisoner of war. London quarters denied Berlin intimations that Hess had gone insane and asserted that on the contrary Hess had "suddenly become sane.")

Acting on Hitler's orders, police arrested close aides and co-workers of Hess on charges of not having prevented him from taking off in the plane and of not reporting the mysterious flight.

The disappearance of the 45-year-old Hess—20 years Hitler's right-hand man in the Nazi party and his political heir after Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering—was first disclosed in a statement declaring that a letter Hess left behind "clearly" indicated he had "fallen victim to hallucinations."

Party headquarters said Hess secretly obtained a plane and took off from Augsburg in Bavaria at 6 p. m. Saturday. They added he had probably "crashed somewhere or met with some other accident."

over a vast series of extraordinary new powers over the American people, their way of life, their industry, and agriculture, or:

2. To announce his intention of using the United States navy to escort munitions "safely" to England.

Four cabinet members—State Secretary Hull, War Secretary Stimson, Navy Secretary Knox, and Agriculture Secretary Wickard—meanwhile made public speeches, advocating U. S. naval convoys. Scores of other aid-Britain leaders did likewise in a nation wide barrage of pro-convoys oratory. Opponents of the convoy program fought back at every step, led by Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., and Herbert Hoover.

People Opposed
After all this oratory, the American people, in mail to members of congress, were found to be overwhelmingly opposed to the convoy program. In short the national campaign of convoys failed—for the moment.

It is not known whether Mr. Roosevelt endorsed the campaign to whip up American sentiment for convoys, but it is certain that he is aware of popular reaction to that proposal. And now he has cancelled a speech in which many prominent new dealers said he would propose U. S. naval convoys. News of the cancellation, frankly, proved a shock to the convoy advocates. Asked for comment on the cancellation, one of the president's advisers replied:

"The president is not yet ready to order convoys—nor is the nation. So the president wants to wait a little while and see what happens both at home and abroad."

Another highly significant fact is that the first published report that the president would deliver a "momentous speech" to the Pan-American union was made 10 days ago in a London newspaper. The story was reprinted in many American newspapers.

This accounted for the statement of Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early in announcing that the Roosevelt speech had been postponed from Wednesday night to May 27:

"And so, despite reports from abroad, there will be no world-shaking pronouncement Wednesday night."

CAPTIVE DEPUTY NAZI LEADER ADOLF HESS GRILLED BY BRITISH

began to wonder whether the bizarre arrival of Hess in Scotland and his weird surrender might prove some strangely conceived Nazi trick of deception.

They thought it might be an attempt, through Hess, to plant phony information in the hands of the British government in a maneuver to weaken Britain's guard.

These quarters noted out that Hess must have thought out fully what the consequences of his escape would be for his family and friends.

But other circles, elated at the prospect of holding a prisoner with presumably complete knowledge of Chancellor Hitler's war plans, grimly declared:

"There are ways and means of getting the truth from anybody."

Grilling Under Way

This led to belief that the process of grilling Hess already is in full swing and that Britain's newest and most famous Nazi prisoner will get little rest until he comes clean.

Churchill, Britain's grim-visaged prime minister, and Eden, trigger-brained foreign secretary, are expected to take a leading part in efforts to extract vital information from Hess.

As deputy Nazi party leader and No. 3 political heir of Hitler, it is conjectured, Hess may know as much of the German war-time grand strategy as any other Nazi alive.

While Hess's destination after leaving the Glasgow hospital was officially described as "unspecified," one report said he was being brought to London to "start a busy routine of having his brains picked by the government."

After the government is finished with him, military and naval authorities will have their turn in "picking his brains."

Official circles optimistically believed this process will reap plenty of first-hand knowledge regarding Hitler's dispositions and plans.

"Wishful Thinking"
Unofficial circles in London went on a wild spree of wishful thinking, claiming that Hess's dramatic surrender represents the "crack-up" of the Nazi regime and a turning point on the road to victory.

Official circles tried to shatter these "myths" by citing cold facts, pointing out the German government is only slightly weakened by the loss of Hess, that the war is still going on, and that the Reichswehr and the German people are "still dangerous enemies."

But despite all this every government official was rejoicing at the thought of the effect Hess's escape will have on the minds of Hitler's inner circle.

They painted a mental picture of Hitler's lieutenants filled with doubt of each other, wonderment at Hess's temerity, fury and suspicion and Hitler's suspicion of all—a mental image designed to draw a smile to the lips of any Briton.

No Peace Overtures
Meanwhile authoritative quarters termed Hess's flight from Germany an "escape." They declared he brought no peace overtures and no message, but came in defiance of Nazi authority.

These same quarters contended that Hess knows that he would be killed by Nazi representatives if he had fled to a neutral country.

They stressed that Hess now is being treated as a prisoner of war and that no unauthorized persons will be permitted to interview him.

Meanwhile, no official hint of the destination to which Hess was taken after being removed from the hospital was permitted to leak out. But in this secret "hide-out"—wherever it was—Hess was believed to be already undergoing the closest kind of questioning by secret agents.

Hess, who landed by parachute from a German warplane on the bank of Scotland's Loch Lomond Saturday evening, breaking his ankle as he hit the ground, was held as an apparently voluntary prisoner of war.

But the shroud of secrecy with which authorities blanketed the movements persisted although the British public clamored for news of the famous aerial adventure by which "The escapee" from the Reich dropped from the skies to a remote Scottish farm.

Unable to conceal their elation, British authorities grinned with delight as they contemplated the implications of Hess's flight from Germany, chief of which they regarded as evidence of dissent in the highest Nazi war councils.

The trend of the battle over Tobey's proposal was uncertain. While he insisted that he would offer the "island" some non-interventionists hoped to persuade him to abandon the effort in the ship bill fight, and seek a clear-cut decision on a motion to consider his measure alone.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Cedar street grounds yesterday, a dozen or more autos with trailers attached, were noted, evidently providing living quarters for those concerned with the pottery. Also an army means of moving to the next lot is provided.

With circus time here again, an Old Timer recalls that many different sites have been used in this city for circus performances in years past. He cited them: Car works site on Mahoning avenue; out in Hamilton street district; in vicinity of Adams street; Grant street, now occupied by the pottery; Scotland Lane; Boyles field; Rosena furnace; and numerous others.

What risks some drivers take. This morning, the driver of a conveyance loaded with new automobiles, while ascending the East Washington hill, jumped out of his cab, ran back to the end of his conveyance, then back to his cab, the conveyance in motion in his absence, climbing the hill.

SCOTTISH PLOUGHMAN TELLS OF CAPTURE

smiled at me and when I assisted him to his feet he thanked me, but I saw he had injured his foot somehow.

I helped him to the house, where my mother and sister got out of bed and prepared tea. They smiled when he remarked: "I am fond of this country."

He refused tea and said he would accept only a glass of water.

I sent word to the authorities, meantime our visitor chatted freely and showed us pictures of his little boy, whom he had left behind only four hours before.

I could tell from his speech that he was foreign but he clearly understood every word I spoke. I knew he was "somebody" because he wore a flying suit of magnificent cloth and a watch and identity bracelet of gold.

He didn't discuss his journey. Indeed, he seemed to treat the flight as a pleasure trip. He seemed very confident that he would be treated well and repeatedly remarked how lucky he had been to land without a serious mishap.

He was very gentlemanly to my mother and my sister and bowed stiffly to them when he entered and left the room. He thanked them profusely before leaving.

He seemed anxious about only one thing. He said to me: "I should like to keep the parachute. I think I owe my life to it."

The visitor would not tell us who he was and we assumed he was just another German airman who had been brought down.

When officials came on the scene he greeted them with a smile and assured them he was not armed. He held up his arms and allowed them to frisk him.

Then he was taken away.

FLIGHT OF HESS STUNS JAPANESE

day long there was an indescribable hustle and bustle in and about the swastika-draped structure.

Internal Crisis?
Although obviously distressed, Japanese circles expressed belief that Hess's flight would not connote a serious internal crisis in the Reich so long as victories continue and Adolf Hitler remains " hale and strong."

Saburo Kurosu, former Japanese ambassador to Berlin, who last saw Hess when Germany staged a huge festival in honor of Japan's 2600th anniversary, was considerably shaken.

"Frankly, I felt a greater attachment for Hess than for any other German except Hitler," he said.

"Hess was a different type of man from Goering, Goebbels or von Ribbentrop. There was something about him that reminded me of an oriental fighter."

"Hess had a great desire to visit Japan and I sometimes wonder how greatly Hitler allowed himself to be influenced by Hess in reposing trust in Japan."

All Japanese newspapers gave wide prominence to stories of Hess' amazing venture.

FIND BODIES OF MISSING FLYERS

of the crash from Dubois, accompanied scouting parties up the rugged paths of Shade mountain, 25 miles northeast of Lewistown, to identify the missing bomber and his wife.

"There is no doubt about the identity of the bodies," he said.

Hit Mountain Top
The charred wreckage of the airplane was first sighted late yesterday afternoon by Norman Rentoul, an All-American Airlines pilot, who radioed his report to the Harrisburg airport. Capt. William A. Moore, superintendent of the Harrisburg flying field, said he flew over the scene at a height of about 50 feet.

"The plane evidently flew into the top of a mountain wide open and slid along the ground for about 100 feet. It apparently burst into flames when it struck the mountain," he said.

Body Is Severed
Frank Martin, a private pilot from Philadelphia, who aided in the search, said he visited the scene of the crash and that Mrs. Brewster's body was found in the fuselage of the plane, her parachute, charred by the fire

In addition, an exceedingly fine program was presented, with several interesting papers being read at this time.

Twenty-three answered roll call with "current events" and in the absence of their president, Mrs. Ralph H. Reed, Mrs. Thomas C. Boston, first vice-president, presided.

The theme of the afternoon centered on "Yucatan" of Central America, and the papers contributed were as follows: "The Home of a Forgotten Race" by Mrs. E. L. Daventport, "The Mysterious Chitzen Itza" by Mrs. T. C. Boston, "The Legend of a Chitzen Itza" by Mrs. Harry Marshall, "The Temple of the Tigers" by Mrs. J. L. Pink, "The Sacred Well and Records of This Ancient People" by Mrs. James Morgan and "Eloquent Silence" by Mrs. W. H. Shipley.

A general discussion brought this most delightful afternoon to a close, after which the treasurer's report by Mrs. C. A. Hollis was given and accepted.

SPEAKER FEATURES TEA AT THIRD CHURCH

One of the loveliest of spring tea parties took place Monday evening, when the Loyal Daughters of the King Missionary society of the Third U. P. church met at 8 o'clock for their second annual mothers-daughters event, at which time Dr. Mary J. Baker was guest speaker.

Mothers of members were honored guests of the occasion. R. Thayer; readings, "To a Mother" and "Mother," by Claribel Cope; vocal solos, "O Little Mother Of Mine" and "A Short Story," by Mrs. Myrl Boyd of the First U. P. church.

Dr. Mary J. Baker was introduced and chose as her subject, "Appreciation." Her talk was interesting and well received, and she emphasized what mothers contribute to their daughters, and what daughters contribute to their mothers.

Presentation of flowers followed, this being in charge of Mrs. Plummer Gibson, chairlady. She gave corsages to Mrs. Mary Wimer, oldest mother present; Mrs. Harry Wyman, youngest mother, and Mrs. Edward Mitchell, grandmother having most daughters and granddaughters present. Monday morning in St. Lucy's church, Miss Martha Grauso, daughter of Salvatore Grauso, of 211 Cedar street, became the bride of Samuel A. Martello, son of Mrs. Anna Martello Call, of South Mill street.

Singing was an enjoyable feature with Mary Spital as the leader, this being in progress as the assemblage was seated around the beautifully decorated tables, and served a full dinner course. "Toast To Mothers" was offered by Mrs. J. G. Cousins, and "Toast To Daughters" was given by Mrs. J. A. Cousins. Following Geraldine Graham gave a violin solo and Lena Mae McConnell contrived a reading. A vocal duet was sung by Mary Spital and Sara Kegarise. FIGURING JAP MOVES TWO WAYS

AN interlude of almost rational Japanese moves and talk at Tokyo is not necessarily reassuring.

There seems to be a definite attempt to take the cutting edges off the once loudly acclaimed Axis pact and Matsuoka's visit to Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin.

It is now alleged that Matsuoka had a fierce row with Der Fuehrer because he wouldn't promise to take on the United States as soon as possible. The story is repeated that the Japs have an easy out under the pact through a secret clause which permits them to decide whether they should act or not, with broad hints that they are getting around to the thought that they had better let America alone, no matter what happens.

Tokio inspires current stories that the deal with Stalin was due to the Russian Dictator's fear of the Nazis. It's still just as good for the Japs if they get into a tangle in the Pacific.

Japanese are kicking around the idea of pulling back their bloodstained armies in China coastal and other readily held points as a preliminary to negotiations for peace with Chiang Kai-shek. It is hard to visualize the real bosses of the Japanese government—the Army leaders—losing face by such a withdrawal after all these years.

All these things; all the inspired news stories and semi-official discussions might mean that Japan wants to give up the role of Big Bad Wolf in the Pacific and Asia—a change of heart too wonderful to contemplate.

Or they might mean that the Japs are seeing the light of reason and common sense, realizing at last that a Pacific explosion is up to themselves.

A wait-and-see policy is strictly indicated until the Japs show without any shadow of doubt that they are not going to play the game they promised Hitler they would only a few months ago.

SCIENCE FINDS NEW WORLDS

Science, in its endless search for weapons with which to fight disease, is forever discovering new worlds. Such an achievement was recently described before the American Chemical Society by two doctors connected with great private research laboratories.

Ever since scientists discovered that the human body can build up immunity against disease, they have been working to find precisely how the process works. The new discovery involves a further use of the electron microscope which employs electrons in place of visible light and gives a hundred times more detail than the best optical microscope. With this instrument, the doctors were able not only to see the large molecules in the body, but could even watch reactions between molecules of various types. It is these reactions which produce immunity to disease.

As a basis for their studies, the doctors produced in rabbits an artificial immunity to tobacco mosaic virus. They then succeeded in photographing the virus which had been attacked by anti-bodies (the disease-fighting organisms in the blood) from the rabbits' blood stream. So clear were the photographs that the actual manner and extent of the attack could be determined.

So science takes another step forward—a step fraught with possibilities for improved health and greater freedom from disease. Here in America medicine is leading the world in the fight against the greatest of killers—bacteria.

FARM POPULATION TREND

Thruout the country in the last decade there has been no marked back to the farm movement.

The Census Bureau reports that when the count was taken a year ago 30,475,206 of the nation's population lived on farms. This is an increase of only 29,856 or 0.1 per cent since 1930, while the population as a whole increased 8,894,229 or 7.2 per cent. The farm population in relation to the total thus dropped 1.7 points to 23.1 per cent.

The reason farm population in the whole nation has not kept pace with the general increase, in the opinion of the Census Bureau, is due to increased efficiency in farming and a decline in exports of certain agricultural products.

While the gain in strictly farm population in the last ten years is below the national average, there has been a marked suburban growth. This trend has been noticeable in Lawrence county.

Hundreds of city dwellers have moved to districts adjacent to cities where they can have a garden and enjoy other advantages of country life. But they cannot be classed as farmers. Most of them still work in the city and most of their interests are in the city. Tilling of the soil on their small plots is an avocation not a vocation to them.

These suburban districts will continue to grow because the conveniences of city life have been extended to outlying communities. The farm population thruout the nation probably will continue its decline because, with the more modern methods of agricultural production, we now raise more farm produce than the country consumes and there is little possibility of opening up new foreign markets in the near future.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Meyers, Ph.D.

RIDICULE AND SARCASTIC IN-JURIOUS

How do you feel on your feet? How do you feel when you get up to talk at a meeting of an sort? How does our adolescent child feel when he does? How does he feel when he attempts to talk in the classroom at school?

During recent years I have discussed this matter before student assemblies in college, high school junior high school, even the sixth grade—with hundreds of such groups scattered throughout about half the states of the Union. As a rule, I speak for fifteen or twenty minutes relating what other students have told me. Then I let students get up from where they are in the audience and tell of their experiences when they are on their feet. I aim to give enough concrete examples to assure my young auditors that every one, even adults, have these fears, these very uncomfortable and disturbing feelings, when they attempt to talk in a group, that while these emotions are nuisances which hinder our clear thinking and effective expression, we should not be ashamed of them; and rather we should try to study them in ourselves and try to reduce their frequency and intensity.

But however hard we strive we can hope only for gradual improvement. There is no magic cure. It will help us if we will take plenty of time, finishing the breath we had started on even taking a second, before beginning to talk. It will also help us if we know before we speak exactly what we are going to say and then to say it in the fewest possible words; and to speak extemporaneously every time the opportunity is reasonably afforded. When however, we present something from memory, it is well not to undertake a selection too long and difficult but to tackle harder and harder ones gradually.

Laughing At Mistakes

I remind the students that most of their laughter in the classroom is at the blunders of their classmates, that it would be possible for them to create a comfortable classroom audience. I remind them that they laugh at the errors of others for about the same reason that a dog wags its tail—it makes them feel good.

When we make fun of another person, we tell ourselves and others how much smarter and more important we think we are than the one we ridicule, and the more he is crushed thereby, the more exalted we feel; the greater his pains the greater our pleasures.

For like reasons parents make fun of children. We will even have the lot repeat some awkward utterance so our friends can make fun of him with us. For like reasons teachers resort to ridicule and sarcasm. The more the humiliates the youth, the more pleasure they get; the more the humiliates the youth, the more pleasure they get; the more the humiliates the youth, the more pleasure they get.

Now and then a small group of high school students will, after one of these forums, ask what they might do about a certain teacher—I warn them not to give teachers the name who habitually humiliates his students with ridicule and sarcasm. I suggest that a few of them convenant that from now on they will refuse to laugh at any joke or wisecrack by that teacher made at the expense of another student; that if they quit playing up to him by laughing at such cruelties, he like the child ignored in a tantrum, will cease his practice. A few groups actually have reported to me that it works. Let me hear from more who have tried this technique.

Resort To Ridicule

In all of us is a powerful urge to get satisfaction from lordling it over others. The easiest victims for us are our children and youths at home and school, and our handiest and most deadly weapons are ridicule and sarcasm. The more the humiliates the youth, the more pleasure they get; the more the humiliates the youth, the more pleasure they get; the more the humiliates the youth, the more pleasure they get.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you have a selected list of good books for the teen age child to read?

A. Yes; any one may have this list without cost, by writing me at 235 East 45th St., N. Y. C., enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. Do you see any hope of cultivating good taste in the growing child today?

A. Yes; if they have parents of good taste who win the child's admiration in a happy family atmosphere; and if, moreover, the child is exposed in infancy and early childhood only to good music as with the aid of the phonograph, and to good literature and art by reading to him from beautifully illustrated books. The best time to build good tastes in the child is in the very early years.

Q. Do you still have copies of a book list on manners for children and parents?

A. Yes; to be had without cost by writing me in care of this paper or at 235 E. 45th St., New York City enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp on it.

In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and he shall direct thy paths.—Proverbs 3:6.

Hints On Etiquette

Don't be over sensitive and take offense at remarks which were never intended to hurt you. This attitude comes from thinking too much about yourself, and really is bad manners, as people will soon be afraid to talk to you for fear of hurting your feelings.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:06. Sun rises tomorrow 4:46.

When a Pittsburgh gal was fined $100 for selling whisky on Sunday, the judge told her she was the kind of people who may cause prohibition to return. Set 'em up again!

People are being warned in this section that counterfeit $5 bills are in circulation. If we get to see a $5 bill we will look at it closer and more carefully than ever.

The mayor of San Francisco is passing on to England information that will help them rebuild cities. He is telling them how San Francisco was rebuilt after the big earthquake. San Francisco was not rebuilt while bombs were bombing on all sides.

Scenery is inexpensive now. Miles of it may be had for the price of a few gallons of gasoline.

HOW IT CAME OUT

A rich gentleman died, leaving his fortune to three friends—a German, an Irishman and a Jew—on condition that each of them deposit $50 in his coffin. At the funeral the German put in 50 bucks, the Irishman put in 50 in stamps, the Jew deposited his check for $150, taking the cash and stamps for his change. He lost though. The check was cashed next day by the Scotch undertaker.

SATISFIED

The old farmer was seeing the sights of the city when he saw a sign on the door—"Women's Exchange."

Entering he found a woman clerk glaring at him from behind a counter, and he asked:

"Is this the Women's Exchange?" "Yes," came the curt reply. "And are you the woman?"

"Yes." "Then I'll stick to Martha!"

YES, HOW? Pat had been out on a party. Along about 4 in the morning he was staggering home. Coming to a bridge he halted in the exact center and saw the moon reflected in the water. Just about that time a policeman came along.

Pat: "What is that down there in the water?" Policeman: "Why, that's the moon."

Pat: "Well, how did I get up here?"

It was often said half the world didn't know how the other half lived. Since then the taxpayers have found out.

A neighbor once saw a man and wife parting as he left home for his work. The couple seemed to be having "words" at the back door.

Then, as the husband departed, the wife seemed to be shaking her fist at him, said the neighbor. Happily, it turned out to be just her affectionate manner of waving a good-bye hand.

How'd you get along with your wife in that fight the other night?" "Aw, she came crawling to me on her knees."

"Yeah! What did she say?" "Come out from under that bed, you coward!"

A sign on a bridge reads, "No Loitering." Seems to us "No Loitering" would be better understood by those doing it.

Byrd Urges Base Near South Pole
Spot Suggested Where Oceans Meet
World War Activities Are Recalled

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Our recently proclaimed protectorate over Greenland extends Uncle Sam's defensive of the western hemisphere pretty nearly up to the North Pole. The big island's Boreal tip doesn't actually overlap that hub of the earth's axis (begging our globe's pardon for implying that it's an Axis it revolves on), but from insular tip to pole is only a short dog sled trip ahead.

Ah, but were overlooking a bit, Admiral Richard E. Byrd reminds us. As an expert on the axis other end (I'm referring to our mundane axis not the Nazi-Fascist-Japanese one), the admiral begs to point out that the South Pole as western hemispherically important as the northern one.

In all seriousness he maintains that the Germans actually did try to navigate Magellan strait during the last war. Admiral von Spee, with a Teutonic raider squadron, had been scamping back and forth between the two southern oceans, doing a lot of damage. Finally a British squadron under Admiral Sturdee overhauled him off the Falkland Islands and smashed most of his fleet. Von Spee, aboard his flagship, the Scharnhorst, got away, however, and streaked it into the strait, where Sturdee overtook him and sank all his craft with all hands.

So as a matter of fact, perhaps those waters are worth watching, as Dick Byrd asserts. It's thus that our straits are important.

Britain There First? There's been a bit of argument as to what country owns Antarctica. Several years ago Byrd himself claimed at least a part of it for the United States, by right of discovery, and named his particular area Little America. The British, though, insisted that Scott and Shackleton, Englishmen, had beaten him to it, and contended that the whole South Pole belonged to them. But at today's juncture, it isn't likely that John Bull would object to Uncle Sam's establishment of an anti-Axis base in the penguin-inhabited southern realm.

No, there probably wouldn't be any friction as to that issue, but there surely would be plenty of it if Uncle Sam should adopt the suggestion made by David H. Popper of the Foreign Policy association's staff in a recent report to the association. Strategist Popper proposes Yankee bases all the way down the South American east coast, below the Caribbean, especially at the extremity of Brazil's bulge into the Atlantic, which isn't far from Africa's bulge from the opposite direction.

That doubtless could be fixed with pro-Yankee Brazil. However, Brother Popper also thinks we should have bases at the extremity of the African bulge, to complement Brazil's. He means a base at Dakar, which is French owned. And he wants bases on Portugal's Azores and Cape Verde islands and on Spain's Canaries. Now, it's a safe bet that France, Portugal and Spain would yell their heads off in opposition to any such western hemispherical expedition. Even if they had no objections of their own to it, respectively, Germany certainly would coerce 'em into howling, just as it coerced Denmark into yowling over our Greenland protectorate.

Expert Popper mentions bases at Singapore and on the Australian coast, too. That part of the program of course would be more than satisfactory to the English and the Aussies. Brazil pretty surely would be acquiescent. There'd be no protest from the Antarctic penguins. But from France, Spain and Portugal?—oh, my!

That Long Highway The movement to link up the Americas by means of a paved roadway clear from our own Yankee network down through the Latin republics to the settled-up areas in Argentina and Chile isn't an overseas project, but it does have its western hemispherically defensive aspect. It would tie our American family more closely together economically and socially and it might signify militarily, though it would be a pretty long hike, for a through trip. Some of the road is built already, but there are big gaps along the line.

The only thing I don't see is how they're going to keep that highway open through the tropical jungles. I know something about Brazil's. At the mouth of the Amazon is a city of about 120,000 population—Para. It's a modern city right up to the jungle's edge. Fronting on the last junglewad street, well paved, are rows of classy houses. On the street's other side is the jungle. That jungle has to be chewed at constantly to hold it back.

ONE FOR SUPREME COURT

The Supreme Court, reversing a criminal contempt rule, drew a hard and fast line between the judicial duty to protect the administration of justice and arbitrary vengeance from the bench.

Interpreting the 1931 Act of Congress, the court said a charge of obstructing justice elsewhere than in the immediate vicinity of a court must proceed by indictment and afford "the normal safeguards surrounding a criminal prosecution."

The occasion for the decision was a flagrant one. "Liquor and persuasion" had been employed to induce an "illiterate, feeble in body and mind," drop a case. However, the 1918 precedent which the judgment overrules was inapplicable in its scope. The Toledo Bee News was held in contempt for a criticism on the ground of "reasonable tendency" to incite public resistance to an injunction in a street car fare case.

Such power, resting on an abstract assumption, to impose summary punishment could be exercised by a judge to silence opposition that sought only the restoration of justice.

The Act of 1931 in no way curtails the authority of a federal judge to punish "misbehavior in the vicinity of the court, disrupting to quiet order, or actually interrupting the court in the conduct of its business." Order and respect for the administration of justice must be peremptorily compelled; but, where contempt is not obvious or proof is required and dispatch not essential to salutary judicial action, justice is better served by its own deliberate processes.

If people really love dogs, why do they give the family name to that little hairless Mexican rodent?

AMOCO does it again!

The Company that gave America its FIRST special motor fuel is now FIRST AGAIN...with new, mightier HYDRO-FORMED AMOCO!

Over twenty-five years ago, the American Oil Company gave Amoco-Gas to the public. It was the first special motor fuel—making possible the high compression automobile motor.

At first people smiled—wondered why a special fuel was necessary. Then they tried Amoco-Gas, and discovered that they obtained performance and economy absolutely impossible for any ordinary gasoline to deliver.

Steadily Improved, Year by Year

As motors became more powerful, as compression increased, as operating temperatures moved up, Amoco-Gas kept pace, stepping up quality and efficiency with each motor improvement.

Amoco Does It Again!

For years chemists and engineers have striven to improve gasoline efficiency even more, by regulating its combustion in the cylinders. They knew that if a way could be found to cut down violent, explosive shock, much power-waste could be eliminated—transformed into useful energy.

Hydro-forming Solves The Problem!

Now the problem has been solved by the revolutionary new Hydro-forming Process of refining gasoline, pioneered by the American Oil Company, and used to make Hydro-formed Amoco-Gas.

Hydro-forming imparts new and even mightier qualities to Amoco. Most important of all, it permits combustion control—Flame Control!

Always the best—now better than ever!

Flame Control Gives Cushioned Power!

Hydro-formed Amoco-Gas burns in a different way. Flame Control reduces violent, explosive shock, cuts down waste, and produces more useful energy. Cushioned Power now replaces severe detonation—delivers a satin-soft, s-m-o-o-t-h surge of energy—a flow of driving power that follows the pistons through their entire course. Vibration is hushed—destructive pounding on bearings and moving parts is reduced.

Better Road Octane!

Official results of road tests by Industry Committees show that conventional gasolines, on the average, lose octanes on the road. Hydro-formed Amoco-Gas actually gains them—surpassing laboratory figures because its knock-arresting constituents become vaporized, distributed more evenly and impartially to all cylinders alike.

An All-time High in Quality!

Good as Amoco-Gas has always been, it is now mightier than ever—reaching an all-time high in quality and efficiency. Everything that makes for outstanding performance moves to new levels. Point for point, it is the finest motor fuel we have ever produced.

Test Hydro-formed Amoco-Gas yourself! Compare it feature for feature, with any other gas you have ever used. See how it outdates your old conception of quick starting, of getaway and pickup, of pulling power and mileage.

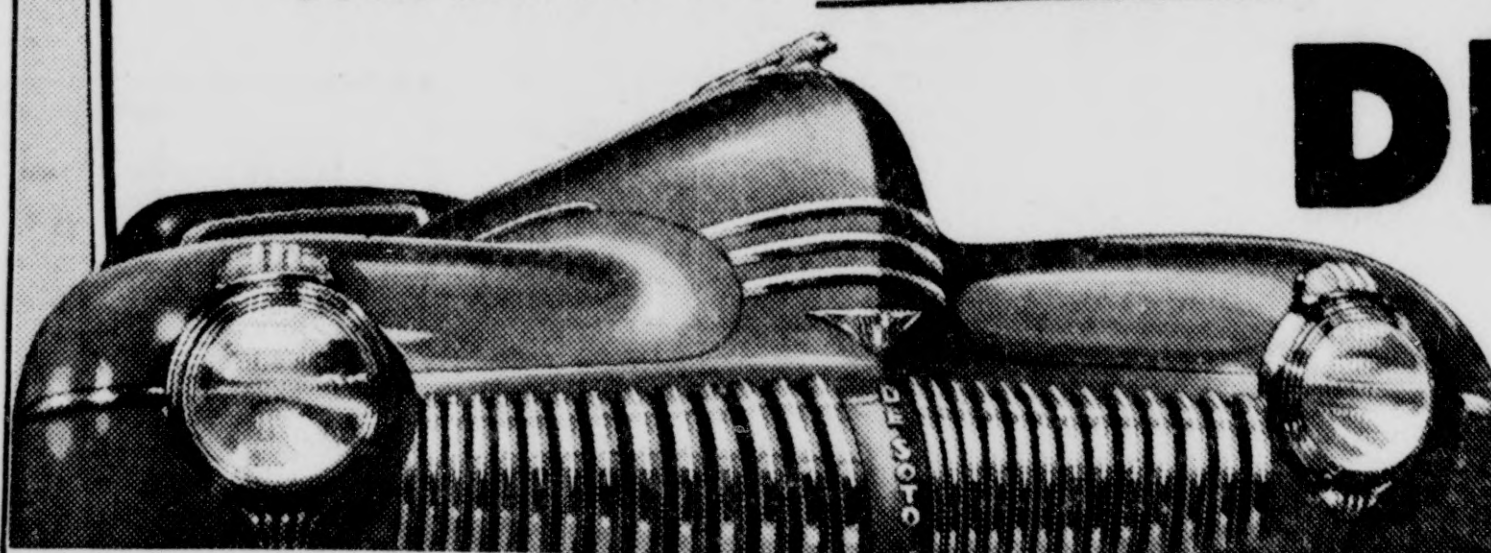

Never before have we made such a mighty motor fuel!

SUPPOSE a majority of the people of this democracy decided it wanted nothing but GOOD news about its government from now on.

Suppose this majority was of one race, one creed, one color. Suppose it willed that ITS ideas were RIGHT, therefore other ideas were wrong—and hence were to be suppressed.

This is a MAJORITY, don't forget; and we abide by the will of the majority in America. And, lastly, suppose this majority passed a law which said, in effect, "ALL of you must take the same medicine—from OUR bottle."

WHEN THAT HAPPENS, democracy is finished. Our forefathers put freedom of speech and thought BEYOND THE CONTROL of a mere majority. Those rights are guaranteed in the Constitution and can be repealed only if THREE-FOURTHS of the states agree.

The citizens of America have given their newspapers the task of reporting ALL the news, both good and bad. Look through the paper you are reading now. Notice how it reports facts, opinions, happenings of all kinds.

If you do not agree with the WAY it sees the world, you are perfectly free to write the editors your strongest criticism. But don't EVER deny ANY newspaper's right to report the truth as it sees the truth.

Don't EVER demand that all papers must agree with, say, the MAYOR, or the town's leading banker, or the University's most learned professor—or with YOU.

The majority of German citizens undoubtedly believes in Hitler. To this majority, Hitler can do no wrong, make no mistakes. Because all of Germany's NEWS-PAPERS must go on, day after day, agreeing with all Hitler does!

If ever the time comes here when all Americans are fed from a single spoon, WE'LL have only one set of opinions. That might be DESIRABLE, but it's not DEMOCRACY.

formally about what ages would be exempted under the provision, spokesman at draft headquarters said that they expected an order to defer all those over 30 "or possibly younger."

Meanwhile Rep. May (D., Ky., chairman of the House military affairs committee, to which Gen. Hershey's proposal was referred, announced that "we will take our time about considering it."

Rep. Thomason (D., Tex., ranking Democrat on the committee, however, said he would ask that Hershey be called before the group in the next few days to explain his request. There seems to be little opposition in Congress to the proposal, though most members, like May, declared they would want of give the matter "full consideration."

The proposed amendment would not change the age groups—21 to 35—required to register under the draft law, but it would allow the deferment of older men from active service and training.

As the law now stands, the matter of deferment is up to local draft boards which are instructed to induct all men between 21 and 35 if they are found to be without dependents, physically fit, and not engaged in essential occupations.

It was recalled that when the army requested original passage of the draft act it announced that its intention was to register only men between 21 and 31. Congress, however, required that the higher age group be included and since then many draft officials, including Gen. Hershey, have advocated lowering the ages.

Engineer Given
Fifty-Year Gold
Service Button

John F. Large Honored At Ceremony In E. And A.
Division Offices Today

One of the New Castle-Youngstown district's veteran Pennsylvania locomotive engineers, deliberately kept away from his cab today—he's so accustomed to obeying orders!

The signal Engineer John F. Large, of Youngstown, headed brought him into the local office of the Erie & Ashtabula division, where Superintendent James E. Vandling shortly before noon presented him with his 50-year gold service button.

Other E. & A. officials saw Vandling pin on Large's coat lapel the first 50-year button he has presented as a Pennsylvania superintendent.

Fifty years ago today Large, just 17, went to work for the railroad as a carpenter's helper in the Erie district. His father, C. M. Large, was master carpenter of the division at the time. That was in 1891.

He served as a helper 11 years, then became a fireman. In 1905 he switched to the engineer's side of the cab.

Large is a popular Youngstown Mason, and active in Grotto. He is now 67 and on Saturday, May 31, will retire from the Pennsylvania service. He hasn't thought much about his future plans.

The engineer, who resides at 565 West Delason avenue, Youngstown, is married and has two married daughters and a son. The son is Frank of Youngstown and the daughters are Mrs. Ruth M. French of Chicago and Mrs. Grace Baker of Galveston, Texas. Two of his brothers were railroaders, too.

Note In News Brings Letter To Owen Fox From Down In Florida

It seems that "Pa Newc's" column in The News is read by folks near and far, for a few days ago Owen Fox, city forester, received a letter from Mrs. Kate C. Humphreys, of St. Cloud, Fla., formerly of this city, in regard to a recent article in "Pa Newc" about the flicker, as follows: "I was surprised to learn that the flicker is a migrating bird. I have missed the rat-tat-tat on the weather boarding of the house in the morning. I found that it mostly came from inside the upper unfurnished story of my cottage home. A small opening had been left in the house gable, which was covered with screen wire. He very diligently made an opening in the wire large enough to admit himself, and seemed to enjoy clinging to the frame, and looking out, as he does from a hole in a tree, up north.

Please treat him kindly, and send him back in the fall. Bobolinks have been with us for a week or more, but their diminishing chatter seems to indicate that they too are moving on. Killdeer are gone too. I note you say that flickers feed on grubs and insects. A favorite food here for them are the nests of mud wasps, which they delight to rob."

Mr. Fox states that in regard to the range of this bird's migration, that it leaves the south quite early, many times during March, and by April they are in the eastern North America in full force. The flicker covers much territory in his summer stay with us. They are found east of the Rockies, south of the Hudson Bay, and southward to the Mexican line. It is one of the most valuable insect destroyers to range over our woods and fields.

Berlin Report Says Huge Fire At Yarmouth

Naval Base At Plymouth Also Battered By Air Raiders Is Claim

(International News Service) BERLIN, May 13.—German planes attacking England during the night were declared today to have started huge fires at Great Yarmouth and to have caused further destruction at the battered port and naval base of Plymouth.

In the English channel, a communication said, a destroyer was sunk and a patrol boat was damaged by German air attacks.

German raids were carried out against English port facilities and other "war-important objectives" on the south and southeast coasts of Britain despite unfavorable weather conditions.

An official announcement of the raids gave no further details but stated that "weak R.A.F. forces" dropped bombs on several points in southwestern Germany during the night without causing military damage. Other damage was described as "insignificant."

An earlier communication claimed German submarines during the past few days pursued a heavily guarded British convoy and sank 13 steamers totalling 76,246 tons.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1941 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Ever since he sprouted wings, man has been out-running the winds. Out-running sound is something new, as Milo Burcham, Los Angeles test pilot, drives a plane so fast that it disappears over the horizon before spectators on the ground can hear the motor. Jeremiah correctly prophesied that "their chariots shall run like the lightning through the streets." We wonder what his simile would have been had he turned his vision skyward.

Milo Burcham, however, didn't quite literally outdistance sound waves. As we figure it, that speed would be something 600 miles an hour. At this speed, one would be unable to hear an approaching plane, coming head-on. Mr. Burcham hit 458 miles an hour, piloting a Lockheed P-38 Interceptor over the Los Angeles Municipal Airport. That is, at any rate, a fair enough challenge of the speed of sound, and when a dive-bomber takes a long straight plunge, it actually may reach a speed of more than 600 miles an hour.

We may not hope to out-run light even if we "fly on the wings of the morning," but as to these lagard sound waves, they'll be just an alisor if we ever really get in a hurry. But there are several ifs and ands complicating this ever-quicken sky-derby and the demand for speed in air warfare, where the battle is testing a plane. He is testing a test pilot, under stress and strain to which no men have ever before been subjected in all history. And there is no second guess if he goes wrong on what his body or his plane may endure.

Medical science helps meet these new demands on the human machine. There are glandular and vitamin injections which help to the ceiling, strapped himself into it and hung there hours at a time readjusting vision, blood-pressure and general orientation to this position. He got so he could smoke and read comfortably this reversed. He took the upside-down record away from the Italian in a flight of four hours, five minutes and twenty-two seconds.

There will no doubt be no choice spot in history for the man who beat Palconi, but there may be and should be for Burcham and scores of other brave men without whom aerial defense would be impossible as the new bombers get their opening work-outs.

And don't forget Major Stanly Umstead, who flies the 83-ton Douglas B-19 bomber, the largest plane in the world, on that $1,000,000, one-minute insurance test crew-bop. And above all, don't forget Lincoln Beachy and Art Smith and all those early-day barnstormers who paid in their lives to aviation. They were test pilots, too.

How you can borrow $100 without endorers or guarantors if you can pay back $6.97 a month—A quick, simple way to borrow

HAVE you a money problem which a personal loan will help you solve? Here is a simple way to borrow without endorers or guarantors—and at rates substantially below the lawful maximum. If you have a job and can make monthly payments you are invited to come in and see us about getting a loan up to $300.

But we attach far more importance to character and regular income than to the value of security. It is unnecessary to ask outsiders to sign the loan papers with you. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit.

Get your loan for less

The payments in the table include all charges. These charges are calculated at Household's rate of 2 1/2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. The Small Loan Law permits us to charge a substantially higher rate than this. Some finance companies do charge a higher rate. We publish our payments and rate of charge so that you may compare costs before you borrow.

Phone or visit us for full information without obligation.

All you do

All you do to apply for your loan is to acquaint us with your problem. Loans are made on furniture, car or note.

Gives Ways To Aid In Defense

State Defense Council Suggests Eight Ways In Which One Can Aid His Country

DOING BETTER JOB FIRST POINT

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, May 13.—Want to do your bit toward national defense? Coordinating every activity that bears on preparedness, the state defense council, of which Gov. Arthur H. James is chairman, laid down these points for individual effort:

"1. Do a better job wherever you are—whether you're a housewife, schoolboy, shop or office-worker. Put a little plus effort and enthusiasm into the normal activity that gives you your daily bread.

"2. Be a little more unselfish and thoughtful of your associates and neighbors. We can't have a united effort if you suspect that your neighbors are trying to get something for themselves out of the defense program.

"3. Do not have any part of conversations that are unfair and mean personal criticisms of national and state leaders. The elections are over.

"4. When the young men go off to the draft give them a cheer and encourage them. Think of it as a patriotic duty and not as a calamity.

"5. Buy special war savings stamps and bonds which the federal government is issuing to finance the defense program.

"6. Write letters of encouragement to the men in service whom you know. Let them know that the people back home appreciate what they are doing and that similar sacrifices will be made at home.

"7. Pay attention to the home drills of local authorities and do as you are told. What you may learn in the handling of gas masks and bomb-proof shelters may mean life or death later.

"8. Give volunteer services to such patriotic organizations as the Red Cross and the United Service Organizations which are raising funds for defense work. If you're a girl or a woman take part in recreational functions held for the soldiers."

An ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure.

Today, cure is more valuable, economically, than ever before. The race is to the quick—meaning the alert and active person.

Many suffer a drag and dullness they cannot explain.

They find themselves tiring too early in the day.

Their minds are not as keen and clear as they should be.

We are not including those who dissipate and over-indulge.

Many serious diseases begin insidiously without obvious symptoms.

A periodical physical examination will indicate approach of trouble.

Many persons are afraid to have a physical examination.

They fear what the doctor may find wrong with them.

The wise individual knows such examinations are economically sound.

ANOTHER DAY OF HOPE BEGINS

Local Committee Tells Why Wheat Quotas Are Needed

Production Exceeds Consumption With Exports Greatly Curtailed

Lawrence County agricultural conservation committee, the members of which are D. L. Fulkman, Frank F. Forbes and W. Carl Hileman, all county farmers, discussed today some of the things that have contributed to the present surplus of wheat which will probably make necessary the proclaiming of wheat marketing quotas for handling the 1941 crop.

The farmers of this country produce more wheat than the home market is able to use, the committee stated. During the past 18 years, farmers have produced an average of 109 million bushels of wheat more than was consumed in this country.

Exports in the past have furnished an outlet for much of the wheat produced in excess of domestic needs, the committee said, but since the outbreak of the present war, wheat exports have been almost entirely cut off by blockade. As a result, wheat has piled up in this country until the total supply for the 1941-42 marketing year is expected to be nearly one and a quarter billion bushels. This is almost enough wheat to meet this country's wheat needs for 2 years, the committee pointed out.

Another factor that has contributed to large wheat supplies is that the average person in the United States eats less wheat than formerly, they explained. In 1920 the consumption of wheat averaged 44 bushels per person, while in 1930 it was 41 bushels, only 3.7 bushels per person in 1939. Although the population has increased, the lower consumption per person has prevented any appreciable increase of the total consumption of wheat, the committee added.

The fact that the domestic market is not able to absorb the wheat grown in this country, coupled with the sharp curtailment of exports, are factors for wheat growers to study carefully before the marketing quota referendum on May 31, the committee pointed out.

Refuses Aid To Iraq Government

(International News Service) CAIRO, May 13.—King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, authoritative quarters said today, has refused any aid whatsoever to the Iraqi government of pro-Nazi Premier Rashid Ali.

The Arabian king, these quarters said, also refused to give Rashid Ali himself any sort of "personal protection."

In striking contrast to this report, a dispatch from Vichy said, diplomatic circles believed that King Ibn Saud was taking the Iraqi side against the British.

Rashid Ali, Cairo quarters said, sent another personal envoy of Teyran, capital of Iran, with a plea for aid.

"The official Iranian attitude toward events in Iraq," they said, "is one of complete disapproval."

All Restrictions On Size Or Army Would Be Removed

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 13.—The House military affairs committee, in an executive session, approved a bill removing the last legislative restriction limiting the size of the United States army.

The bill, a War Department-approved "omnibus" measure, provides that during the fiscal year starting next June 30, "all provisions of existing law limiting the strength of any branch of the army, the number of flying cadets in the army air corps, the number of assistant surgeons, the number of assistant military engineers and the number and grade of reserve officers who may be ordered to extend active duty with the air corps, shall not apply."

Many Theories On Hess' Flight

Much Conjecture Aroused
By Fantastic Airplane
Hop Of Nazi Leader

MANY OF IDEAS SEEM PROBABLE

(International News Service)
Rudolf Hess gave official and unofficial theorists the world over a field day today. There were many "explanations" at there were explainers. Some theories seemed probable, others only tenable, still others apparently fantastic—if one overlooked the fantastic nature of modern warfare that has swept all previous conceptions of conflict into the discard.

Following is a summary of some of the explanations. In each case, the arguments advanced can be answered by a rebuttal seeming as sound. But, here they are—

(1)—Hess is mentally deranged. (If so, how then explain the carefully planned flight, the crashing of his plane into an open field to avoid injury to civilians?)

(2)—Hess fled a present or planned blood purge. (He always has been a fanatical Nazi; he has risked his life for Hitler's cause before; he left a devoted wife and a son he loved, for whom he might be expected to sacrifice his own life, as hostages in Hitler's hands.)

(3)—The invasion of England has begun, with Hess the vanguard, slated as fuhrer of England should the invasion succeed. (Cold-blooded realists argue that Hess would be one of the first to fall should invasion be attempted, that even Phlegmatic Britons would clamor for his head—the heads of Germans now in British concentration camps—once a blitzkrieg invasion was launched.)

(4)—Hess is a latter-day Benedict Arnold and has "sold out" to Britain. (But where the gain, what the reward? Certain he would be of shamed condemnation by his own racial posterity; contempt even of his foes in his role in history. Conversely, in the Reich he enjoyed the respect and trust of the Nazi party and the German army, the love of the German masses.)

(5)—Hess brought to England the final peace terms of Hitler. (Would a man whose political rank is akin to that of U. S. Secretary of State Hull bear peace terms in this manner? What assurance was there that his plane would not be shot out of the skies by British fighters? There still are neutral European nations—Russia, Sweden, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal—through which peace proposals could more easily and more sensibly be transmitted.)

(6)—Hess believed he could single-handedly effect a peace through his pre-war British friends. (Pre-war British "friends" are friends no longer. Even those "friends" did not include Winston Churchill or Anthony Eden—and it is these men who today are seeking to wrest from Hess the secret war plans of the German high command.)

(7)—Hess was the victim of a British "trap" and was "lured" to England by British Intelligence agents, trading on his pre-war friendship for certain Britons. (British Intelligence in this war has not covered itself with glory—witness the Nazi surprises in Denmark and Norway, and underestimation of German forces in the recent Greco-Yugoslavian debacle. Again, a plot so daringly conceived certainly would have insured the safe landing of Hess at a British airport, instead of gambling on the rip-cord of a parachute, floating down from a clearly-marked enemy plane over guns manned by home guards with nervous trigger fingers.)

Record coal and ore loads are now being hauled over the division, the division reports.

Soose Decision Gets Board Okay Following Hearing

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 13.—The New York Boxing commission today upheld the decision of its own referee and judges in the Ken Overlin-Billy Soose middleweight title fight of last Friday.

The decision awarding the title (New York State variety) to Soose had met with widespread criticism. The commission said today "it was apparent that Overlin's holding tactics and the fact that Soose had forced the fighting had influenced the officials in making their decision."

Schwab Left Little Of Huge Fortune

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., May 13.—Pennsylvania debts exceeding $300,000 with assets of only $51,094 were left by the late steel master, Charles M. Schwab, it was disclosed today in a report filed by the First National Bank of Ebensburg, ancillary administrator of his estate.

Schwab once had a fortune of almost $200,000,000. He died Sept. 19, 1939 in his $4,000,000 home in New York city, at the age of 77. His wife, who owned his magnificent estate, "Immergrum," in nearby Loretto, preceded him in death by eight months.

Most of the debts left in this state by the steel maker were to banks for loans, ranging from $400 to $180,000.

His summer home in Loretto, valued at $350,000, has been mentioned as the possible site of a veterans hospital.

Some neighbors are "hateful," and others suffer in silence when you become a nuisance.

Little men don't make good when given high place. They were big men before that, but nobody realized it.

Mrs. Roosevelt Can't See Any President Leading U. S. To War

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today told a press conference that she could "not imagine any president of the United States leading his country into war unless we were attacked."

"I do not, however, see how anybody can make hard and fast promises about such things," she added, "but I would not question for one moment that every president of the United States would do what he could to keep his country out of war."

NO OFFICIAL NEWS

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Obviously intrigued by the amazing story of Rudolf Hess' voluntary flight to England, White House officials reported today that President Roosevelt's only information concerning the fantastic episode was coming from the press and radio.

No wonder small towns feel superior to New York. They see so many of their ornery boys go there and make good.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE OF GROWING HABITS CAUSES PARENTS' NEEDLESS WORRIES

Unless we're in our eighties or nineties, when living to be a hundred is a goal, we elders are likely to slur over our birthdays and leave the celebration of natal anniversaries to the young. But I'd like to see birthdays assume more significance in the adult's life. After all, with so many things making life in this world hazardous, another milestone in the journey, another milestone, does represent something of an achievement worthy of note.

A birthday is a good time for an adult to sit down, consider his physical gains or losses in this year and make new plans or revise old ones, for improvement of his physical condition in the next year, and this should be done in connection with a thorough physical checkup by a doctor. We should have such checkups at least once a year, and the birthday can be a reminder that one is due. Checkups made at established intervals provide an interesting record and a better basis for comparisons.

Such birthday goings-over are even more significant in childhood. The child's first birthday is a particularly important time for a physically and mentally, for the first year is probably the most important in life.

When he is 12 months old, an average child weighs about three times his birth rate, i. e., 21 pounds. In the first year of life the head, the chest and the abdomen ought to keep pretty well together in measurement until at the end of the 12 months all three are close to 18 inches. If this proportion of growth isn't maintained fairly closely, then have reason to suspect that there is something wrong. This something is usually a fault in diet. At one year an average child measures 25 to 35 inches in height, depending on sex, race, etc., for children vary considerably according to the family type and the nationality. No two are exactly alike in growth.

No two are exactly alike in growth. If this was better known and understood, much wear and tear on the nerves of those binging up children would be avoided. Parents have a way of worrying themselves sick if their little Billy or Nancy doesn't walk or talk or teeth as early as a neighbor child. They frequently fall into the error of demanding more of a child than he is developmentally ready to do. Around one, when the child begins to be able to act independently, is when he first comes in conflict with his parents, when he first encounters the confusing (to him) "do's" and "don't's". This is the age at which his training in self-reliance should be under way. His parents should be teaching him how to do things for himself.

At the end of this first year the average child should be setting up to eat and having solid foods. He may have (most children do) six teeth. He is able to pull off his stockings and other clothes, but he cannot dress himself. He can perhaps stand alone, and if he is the small, wiry type, he can walk alone. He can use his hands well, and can do things with a ball and boxes and blocks. He may be able to utter one or two words and to associate them with the objects to which they belong, such as mama and dada. He can if the mother has been training him properly, control his bowels and he may have begun to control his bladder. He should no longer be treated as a baby.

Tomorrow: More about how to check up on the one-year-old child and determine if his progress is normal.

Today's Lesson in Flag Etiquette

● The flag must not be used as a table cloth. Nothing but the Bible should rest upon the flag.

● The flag should never be used to decorate platforms or stands, or draped in any fashion for decorating purposes.

● To salute the flag, persons in civilian clothes should stand at attention, place the hat with the right hand over the left breast. Persons attired in military uniform should execute the right hand salute.

● No other flag should be hoisted above the American flag except a church pennant, which can be flown from the masthead above the Stars and Stripes when religious services are in progress in a military chapel or aboard a U. S. Navy ship.

● In displaying the flags of two or more nations, all flags should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size.

This is the second of a series of five illustrated daily lessons in "Flag Etiquette" offered to the readers of The News in cooperation with the National Department of Americanism, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

These illustrated instructions are based on National Flag Code regulations, as approved by representatives of a large number of patriotic and civic bodies and endorsed by the United States Army and the United States Navy. These rules constitute the unwritten law of the flag and this feature is presented with the hope it will prove helpful in creating in the hearts and minds of American citizens a greater reverence for the Stars and Stripes and the principles for which it stands.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

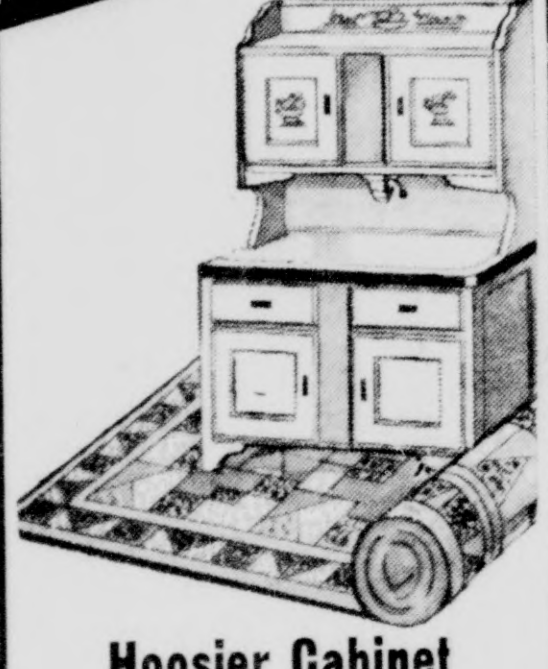

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy. It helps keep the skin soft and pliable, thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin, for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Far Reaching Decision Made By Judge Braham On Municipal Authority

In a far reaching decision, which if upheld, will affect more than sixty Pennsylvania municipalities, Judge W. Walter Braham today held that the city councilmen of Beaver Falls cannot hold positions as members of the Beaver Falls Municipal Authority, positions to which they appointed themselves.

The case is that of Robert E. McCreary, district attorney of Beaver county who asked for quo warranto proceedings against Glen W. Major, L. W. Kelly, Sam Aron, and Ed. A. Sahil, councilmen of Beaver Falls, asking them to show their authority to sit as members of the Municipal Authority while they are members of council.

Bought Water Company
Acting under the act of General Assembly, the Beaver Falls council sometime ago organized a Municipal Authority and elected themselves and one dayman as the board of the authority.

Acting as members of the Board of Authority they then purchased the City Water Company. Their right to elect themselves as members of the board and to conduct business as board members while they were also city councilmen was questioned by District Attorney Robert E. McCreary and the suit resulted. Judge Braham was invited by Judge Reader of Beaver county to sit on the case and did so.

The opinion ousting the councilmen as members of the Municipal board is a lengthy one in which a host of authorities are cited to buttress the opinion.

In part the opinion says, "The case comes before the court upon demurrer (by Beaver Falls City Solicitor John D. Pay) to a suggestion or petition for writ of quo warranto against the city council of Beaver Falls, to show by what right they hold office as members of the Beaver Falls Municipal Authority."

The opinion goes on to recite the fact that in June 1940 an ordinance was adopted by the Beaver Falls council authorizing the Municipal Authority and the council elected themselves members. Subsequently they purchased the Water company.

Cites Authority:
Citing Corpus Juris P.90, Par.42 (10) the opinion goes on, it is contrary to the policy of the law to use his official appointing power to place himself in office. All officers who have appointing power are disqualified for appointment to the offices to which they may appoint."

The possibilities of fraud and improper conduct are pointed out by Judge Braham in such a case. Contracts would have to be made by the authority and he asks, are the same people to represent the municipality as the authority?

Commenting upon the argument that the council first provided for salaries for themselves as board members, and then rescinded that action, Judge Braham points out that in some cases the councilmen appointed themselves board members for a period of time extending beyond their terms of office as councilmen.

Continuing, Judge Braham says, "The Legislature is in session. It is to the Legislature that any appeal for such procedure as has been here adopted may be directed, not to the courts."

The opinion is a "decree nisi" which means that unless it is appealed inside of ten days it will become final in its effect. The decree nisi says:

"The court finds the defendants guilty of unlawfully holding the places, and exercising the powers and functions of members of the Beaver Falls Municipal Authority. The court gives judgment that said councilmen be ousted from the exercise of said powers and performance of said functions and that R. E. McCreary recover his costs from the defendants."

If the decision sticks it will mean a revamping of most of the Municipal Authorities in over sixty municipalities of the commonwealth. In the meantime an act of the Legislature would have to be passed validating what has already been done.

AROUND CITY HALL

During the session held in the city building Monday council received from Finance Director James L. Fink certification of a contract between the city and Mooney Bros., for a quantity of ready mixed concrete which will be used in the construction of sidewalks under provisions of the city-WPA project. It was reported that another local firm will receive a similar contract, because the same price, $8.50 per cubic yard, was asked by both contractors. Relative to the sidewalk project here, it was reported to council by City Engineer Glenn R. Throop that the WPA has not yet assigned men for the work. Many persons have placed applications for the work and council has adopted the position that failure to give the city employees is preventing the improvement.

Mrs. Anna Yoho was recommended in council as a temporary employee of the tax division of the city solicitor's office at a rate of 40 cents per hour. The recommendation was presented by Finance Director James L. Fink and was accepted.

Councilman James L. Fink submitted to council a letter requesting that council add its approval to a contract between the city and Paul Weller whereby Weller will furnish the city with chlorine which will be necessary this year at the disposal plant. The request was granted.

Safety Director David O. Davies presented a recommendation that a fire water hydrant be installed at Cascade Park and East Washington street and the recommendation was adopted. The hydrant will be installed when the water company extends its line to East New Castle. The nearest hydrant to the park, at present, is at East Washington and Vogan streets.

Progressive club of the Seventh ward today thanked Streets Director William H. Dunlap and Streets Commissioner William Fleming for having put a South Liberty street field in condition for athletics. The club stated that the service was much appreciated.

Registrations to vote are still woefully light. In spite of the fact that many people have changed their residences, scores of young people have come of age and other scores must register again because they allowed their right to vote to lapse, there is still a large case of inertia shown in registrations.

Ohio Traffic Toll Mounting Higher

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., May 13.—If the present rate continues, the 1941 traffic toll in Ohio will be one of the highest ever.

During the first four months of the year, 300 persons have died in Ohio's nine metropolitan counties, 55 more than by May 1 last year.

Montgomery and Tuscarawas counties led the increase, Montgomery reporting 33 deaths since Jan. 1 as compared with only six in the same period in 1940 and Tuscarawas, 26 compared with 6.

Other death rates compared with last year's included: Stark, 21 and 15; Lucas, 37 and 31; Mahoning, 32 and 20; and Cuyahoga, 69 and 50.

Franklin and Summit counties were holding the tragedies even with the 1940 figure, Franklin with 25 and Summit with 27.

Pennsylvania Oil Would Be Factor In European Nations

Would Exert Controlling Influence On Destiny Of Continent Scientist States

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 13.—If the mineral resources of Pennsylvania were located in Europe they would exert a controlling influence on the destiny of that continent, Dean Edward Steidle of the school of mineral industries of the Pennsylvania State College declared.

"As an example," he said, "we may consider the oil production of Iraq which has been so much publicized by military developments in the Near East. During the past five years the oil output in Iraq has amounted to about 31 million barrels per year, while during the same time Pennsylvania has averaged 17 to 18 million barrels, or considerably over one-half that of Iraq."

While the Pennsylvania output is only a small part of America's total production of more than a billion and a quarter barrels per year, it is an important part, said Dean Steidle, because of its high quality as a source of lubricants. Development of new methods of recovery in the research laboratory will help to safeguard future output, he said.

Relief Rolls At Record Low Stage

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 13.—Pennsylvania's general assistance rolls continued to decline during the week ending May 3 with a record low of 286,385 persons reported on relief.

The weekly decline accounted for the dropping of 2,733 cases, the department of public assistance reported today. The state's relief rolls now contain 91,000 persons less than on February 1, when the winter's peak was reached.

The continued decline was credited to the general improvement in economic conditions.

Expenditures for the week were $669,750—a drop of $23,700 from the previous week.

Russia Engaged In Transporting Of War Supplies

(International News Service)
ISTANBUL, May 13.—Soviet Russia has chartered eight Black Sea freighters to Germany, it was reported today, and the ships were understood to be transporting war supplies from the U. S. S. R. to Italy.

The vessels, totalling 20,000 tons, were said to be picking up cargoes at the Russian port of Odessa and adding to them at the Rumanian and Bulgarian Black Sea ports of Constanza and Varna.

Their route, it was stated, runs through the Bosphorus and Dardanelles to the Aegean, where they pass through Greek territorial waters and the Corinth canal en route to southern Italy.

Make War On Jap Beetle; Sheep Tick

Agriculture Authorities Mobilize Forces Against Pests In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 13.—Department of agriculture authorities have mobilized available resources to combat the perennial invasion of Japanese beetles.

Secretary John H. Light announced that additional areas in the north-western part of the state as well as several localities in the heavily infested southeastern counties have been included in quarantine area.

All of Erie county, with the exception of the City of Erie, Mill Creek, Wayne and Concord townships, remain outside the beetle area; only Sparta, Rome and Oil Creek townships are excluded from quarantine in Crawford county, and the northern half of Mercer county is quarantine exempt. Light asserted.

To the generally infested southeastern area has been added sections of Cumberland, York, Berks, Lehigh and Northampton counties. In all of these areas as in previously quarantined sections, all fruits and vegetables will require certification between June 15 and October 15 before it will be permitted to move.

Agriculture officials are also warning on another disease. Keds or Sheep Tick, now making the rounds in the commonwealth's flocks.

Information on eradication is available to all farmers who notice the presence of the parasite insect in their flocks. A two or three percent solution of cresol is recommended by the department as a destroyer of the tick.

Aging Boston Red Sox Hurler Wins His 295th Game Of Career, Is 41 Years Old

CHICAGO WALLOPS CINCINNATI CLUB

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, May 13.—You can take him or leave him, but at the age of 41 you can't ignore Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove.

Looking at him today as he is now and as he was down through the years you must wind up admiring him as one of the all-time greats in the pitching department. For instance, yesterday he won his 295th game for the Red Sox of Boston, beating the New York Yankees, 8 to 4. This is the same Grove who starred for the Philadelphia Athletics in their ascendancy, and who went to the Red Sox for a fabulous sum only to become a flop.

He has been kicking around the majors for so many years that some refuse to believe that he is the same Lefty Grove they knew and heard about in the past.

Times Yankees
Still he beat the Yankees yesterday in a game which saw Lefty Gomez driven to cover quite hurriedly before the final shelling was over.

Among other things Jimmy Fox hit a home run with two on to help clinch the victory for Grove. The Yankees looked quite pitiful before the thing was over.

The Washington Senator beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 1, in the only other American league game and one in which there could be no immediate significance. Dutch Leonard pitched the Senator victory, allowing only six hits.

Cubs Wallop Reds
In the National league, the Chicago Cubs won from the Cincinnati Reds by 12 to 1 as a follow up to Sunday's 9 to 1 victory for the lowly Cubs. Lee pitched the victory and allowed only six hits.

The Pittsburgh Pirates lost to the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2, 13 hits against seven telling the story of the victory and the defeat.

And all of this winds up another week of baseball in which various clubs have set the stage for a whole shift beginning today when the eastern clubs go west in the National and the western clubs east in the American.

UMPIRES ASSIGNED FOR COUNTY GAMES

The following umpires will handle the two Lawrence county baseball league games on Wednesday evening.

Sunday, May 18, Patriotic Day In Minor Leagues

"I Am An American Day" To Be Observed By 41 Minor Leagues

Sunday, May 18, has been designated as "I Am An American" day by congressional resolution and presidential proclamation.

Minor league baseball plans to observe it fully, and President W. G. Bramham, of the National Association, has requested the co-operation of every one of the 41 leagues operating this year.

Bramham has asked that in every minor league park without exception, where a game is scheduled for May 18, there be simple but impressive ceremonies marking the observance.

Most clubs scheduled at home for that day have enlisted the aid of patriotic organizations and will stage flag-raising ceremonies with players, umpires, officials and fans taking part.

Originally an American game, it is fitting that "I Am An American" day be given full recognition wherever the game is played on American soil.

Also summoned before the ring officials were Referee Arthur Donovan, Bill Healey and Marty Munroe, the judges who awarded Soose a verdict that pitched Madison Square Garden into a pandemonium of boing.

Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, had indicated shortly after the 15-round title fight that the commission would not reverse the judges' decision.

WEST PITTSBURG BATTLES INDIES

West Pittsburg Field Scene Of Contest, Only Three Games On Card Tonight

The feature attraction in the City Baseball league tonight will be played at the West Pittsburg field where the "Gas House" team battles the championship Lawrence Indies team. The game will start at 6 o'clock.

The Slovaks and West Side game is called off tonight owing to the death of Mr. Danish, father of the star third-sacker, this means but three city league games on the night's menu.

Manager Danny DeGenova and his West Pittsburgers have a thing or two to settle with the Indies and may turn the trick tonight. Dick Powell has been nominated by Manager DeGenova to start on the mound and Attisone and Lazar will be used in reserve if Powell finds the going too rough. It will be Paul Morrison on the hill for the Indies. The Indies will be playing their first loop game tonight, the game Sunday was called off.

Up at Marshall field the Elders will try for their second win of the league season when they play the Moose team. Manager Joe O'Leary will probably start either Schellkopf or Gunnert on the hill, with the Moose hurler not known definitely. Ryantown pepped up by their opening day win over the Moose team, will go to Croton for a battle this evening and may send Dolly Hartman back to the hill, after the fine game that he turned in Sunday. For Croton it will be the first league game and Andy Sugent, Pepe or Store will get the pitching nod.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Dick Roberts, an expert along the piscatorial, has returned from several days quest for trout in the First Fork near Austin, Potter county. His report glows. In fact, Sir Richard vividly describes the condition of the First Fork now as 100 per cent a contrast to formerly. Years ago, Dick reports, pollution from a mill ruined fishing. However, the mill has been closed for almost a year and the First Fork now is in great condition. He said he caught some nice trout. Roberts used dry flies and minnies to bait the trout in First Fork between Costella and Wharton. Just before leaving for his return trip of approximately 170 miles there arrived at Fuzzy Berglund's place, near Wharton, Mont. Hyde, "Doc" Reed and Jack Davis. Locally trout have been much on the winning side. Cold weather and low water have caused many fly-casters to return with empty creels. However, this may augur well for good trout fishing later.

Sweetwater Lew Jenkins defends his lightweight championship against Pennsylvania's best 135-pounder, Bob Montgomery, Friday night in New York. Both are good punchers. Some scribes believe Jenkins' crown may be brushed off. After the sparring, a role rolled him during a training bout. Joe Louis dropped the mate twice in retaliation. Joe's training for Buddy Baer... Fritz Zivic may not fight Red Cochrane this month. He has been attacked by carbuncles and boils.

Lawrence County Baseball league umpires are responsible for the delivery of box scores, according to League Secretary James Martin. The fund being raised to aid Grover Alexander, former pitcher, in New York, is nearing the $1,800 mark. This may give one of the heroes of baseball a fresh start in life. In the 1500th game of the league, the police fights here May 26. The price was boosted because of increased cost of promotion. Police have tickets.

Matt Welch, Warren, O., an ex-baseball croney of "Hub" Hart's, visited with Hub Sunday. Hart soon leaves to reside in California. And by the way, Tom McMahon works for Matt and Mickie Forkins in Warren... Those 22 errors in the Bessemer-Wampum game may remain an all-high for several years. With the advent of warm weather and loose muscles errors will soon drop to the one-two-three total. Lawrence County Loop Secretary James Martin will call a meeting for this week, here, probably Thursday night.

The Buddy Baer-Joe Louis cook pot is doing fine. Evidence is seen in the statement of Ray Carlen, manager of Lou Nova, to the effect that Buddy can knock out Joe Louis, May 23, in Washington. This is a possibility but unlikely. Lefty Grove, 41, and in the majors 17 years, hurled his 295th victory in the Red Sox-Yankees game... New York ring solons have taken under advisement Ken Overly's protest over Friday night's decision which gave Soose the middleweight championship crown.

WAMPUM GUN CLUB TO MEET TONIGHT

Announcement is made that a meeting of the Wampum Rod and Gun club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the club headquarters on the Wampum-Ellwood City road.

SHORT SPORTS

CAMP SHELBY, Miss-Johnny Murphy, American Bowling Congress all-events champion of 1938, missed the event this year. He was called in the draft.

Three Big Ten players are now farmhands of the Chicago White Sox—Bernie Blumenthal, Northwest, southpaw pitcher; Leonard Keitz, Indiana star, and Lennis Kalis, Illinois shortstop.

The 1940-41 Iowa basketball team in 18 games scored 804 points to better the school's former record of 753 set up by last year's team in 21 games.

Jimmy Wilson, Cub manager who made a great pitcher of Bucky Walters, a third sacker, now experimenting with Phil Cavarretta, a first baseman and outfielder. Phil has pitched a few innings.

Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, rates John Lupien, Harvard product, as No. 1 rookie first baseman, and has placed him at Louisville. But Al Blair isn't far behind Lupien in Cronin's esteem. So he has been loaned out to Baltimore this year. Now it's a race between John and Al as to who will reach Boston first.

There are 79 auxiliaries working. Mrs. Robert Garland is chairman of the knitting program. Mrs. Cartwright of the Ellwood City branch, and Mrs. C. J. Kirk of the main chapter, both of whom were introduced and cheered. Both were active in Red Cross work.

Knickerbocker News Contests N. L. R. B. Orders

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Publishers of the Knickerbocker News, of Albany, N. Y., filed a challenge in the supreme court against the right of the National Labor Relations Board to exercise judgment over the merits of the newspaper's employees.
Appealing from a N. L. R. B. and lower court order requiring reinstatement of three editorial workers with back pay, the newspaper, a part of the Gannett chain, raised the following issues:
1. Does the National Labor Relations Board have jurisdiction over a newspaper of which only 559 copies out of a total of 55,875 circulate outside the state of publication?
and
2. Whether the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press is abridged by a labor board order superimposing its judgment over that of the publisher in selection and assignment to work of editorial employees?

The controversy arose out of a newspaper consolidation in Albany which the publishing company said, required discharge of 29 editorial employees.
The local branch of the American Newspaper Guild demanded reinstatement of seven employees charging discrimination against guildsmen. The board and lower court ordered reinstatement of three editorial workers with back pay.
In its appeal the newspaper contended that the newspaper business is "inherently local" and that no interstate commerce is involved. The paper thus, it argued, is not subject to the Wagner Act.
The company asserted that in selecting employees to be discharged and retained it exercised its judgment as to the merits of the employee. Affect of the board's order, it asserted, is to take over the duty of the publisher to do this.

Economic Concessions To Be Made To Latin American Republics

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 13.—The United States government, it was learned today, has decided that substantial economic concessions must be granted the Latin American republics in the interests of Western Hemisphere defense.
As an initial move in this direction, the government intends to call upon the American people, and especially the armed forces of the nation, to eat Argentine and Uruguayan canned meats, especially corned beef.
A considerable reduction in the tariff duties on these meats is planned under the trade agreements which the state department has announced will be negotiated with those two countries.

Tariff reductions on nearly 20 other Argentine and Uruguayan products also are contemplated, but the meat concession is considered the most important.

EDWIN FISHER IS REPORTED IMPROVING

Edwin Fisher of Wallace avenue, who met with serious injuries a week ago today on the Boardman-Canfield road, while driving a load of steel to Cleveland, O., is reported to be improving in the South Side hospital in Youngstown, O., where he has since been confined and undergoing treatment.
Fisher, being crowded off the road by a produce truck hit and run driver, suffered painful injuries inwardly, and his one leg was badly injured, it being thought that amputation might be necessary. However, X-Rays show the bone is knitting and if no infection sets in, he has a fair chance for complete recovery.

The surest way to have a ripe old age is to spend all you make and not provide for it.
